DIESEL EXHAUST FLUID (DEF)

API Approved

Meeting the Strictest Standards of Performance

WHAT IS DEF?

Diesel Exhaust Fluid is a purified solution of 32.5% urea in deionized water. It is a colorless, odorless, non-hazardous, non-flammable solution made from natural gas. In an effort to protect our natural environment, DEF is injected into the exhaust system of Selective Catalytic Reduction (SCR) equipped diesel vehicles to convert noxious NOx into harmless nitrogen gas.

WHO WILL NEED DEF?

Federal law requires most 2010 diesel engines to be equipped with Selective Catalytic Reduction (SCR) technology. These vehicles will require the use of DEF. The Engine Manufacturers Association has estimated the U.S. DEF demand at 1.3 billion gallons a year by 2019. DEF will be sold in retail stores, auto parts stores, convenience stores and fueling stations nationwide.

HOW CAN I PURCHASE DEF?

Cul-Mac is YOUR supplier for DEF. Available for purchase in: 1 gal., 2 gal. Box, 2.5 gal., 5 gal., 55 gal. Drums, 275 and 330 gal. Totes.

PGIP

Propylene Glycol Inhibitor Package

PGIP is a blend of corrosion inhibitors for recirculating systems containing propylene glycol for freeze protection. Most glycol fluids contain inhibitors. But, these can break down over time, or lost through leakage. PGIP is used to replenish the lost inhibitors or for use with new propylene glycol.

Glycol/water mixtures are more corrosive to metals than water alone.

- It is very important that inhibitors be used to help reduce the corrosion rate.
- PGIP protects the metal surfaces, and neutralizes the organic acids formed from the glycol degradation.

EGIP

Ethylene Glycol Inhibitor Package

EGIP is a blend of corrosion inhibitors for recirculating systems containing ethylene glycol for freeze protection. Most glycol fluids contain inhibitors. But, these can break down over time, or lost through leakage. EGIP is used to replenish the lost inhibitors or for use with new ethylene glycol.

- Glycol/water mixtures are more corrosive to metals than water alone.
- It is very important that inhibitors be used to help reduce the corrosion rate.

C.S.W.T.

Closed System Water Treatment

Heat Transfer fluid treatment, where freezing and burst control is not an issue.

C.S.W.T. is a complete treatment for the protection of closed and low makeup, hot or chilled water recirculating systems. It protects all metals commonly found in these systems and contains scale deposit inhibitors. Water is almost a perfect heat transfer fluid. Excellent properties for heat transfer, excellent properties for health and safety concerns and low cost, but water corrodes metals and metal piping with irreversible damage in less than two years.

- C.S.W.T. is a liquid combination of several effective corrosion and scale inhibitors.
- It is slightly alkaline and has little effect on the pH of the recirculating solution at use strength.
- It is safe to use and contains no chromates, zinc or heavy metals.
- C.S.W.T. will not harm mechanical seals or other non-metal components of the system.
